HE presence in the City of the Germania Savings Bank directors of San Francisco, together with several very prominent California capitalists, has had its influence on the stock market in many ways. The Germania Savings Bank people have made several large purchases of local bonds and have made some good-sized loans. They are not loaning money on sugar stocks but are always willing to consider loans on good business property in Honolulu. Foreign moneys coming into the local market either for investments or in the shape of loans always tend to relieve the tightened financial market and it will

Foreign meneys coming into the local market either for investments or in the shape of loans always tend to relieve the tightened financial market and it will not be long before money conditions will be normal again.

Yesterday afternoon the Island steamer Mauna Loa sailed for the Hawaii leeward coast with the Germania Savings Bank directors and a number of other financiers who recently came to Honolulu from the Mainland. They are to visit Hilo, the Olaa and Puna plantations and the Hilo railroad. The vessel has been chartered after making its regular landing on the Kona coast and will take the entire party direct to Hilo. They will be personally conducted by R. F. Dillingham and L. A. Thurston, who are both interested in the plantations and the railroad above mentioned. The financiers are making a close inspection of Hawaiian securities, not the least of which are the bonds of several of the new plantations, and it is anticipated that they will invest heavily in the Islands before returning to San Francisce.

The most popular stock on the market during the past week was Oahu Railway and Land Company shares, which advanced from sales aggregating over 1,000 shares at 190 to 200 per share.
